EDITH POND GOES TO THE COUNTY JAIL

Her Career of Robbing Men of Their Wads of Bills Will Now Be Checked for Some Time.

Edith Pond, colored, of South Washington avenue, who was arrested early yesterday morning by Detective John Moir and Lieutenant of Police John Davis, on the charge of taking a purse containing $135 from a man whom she met on Lackawanna avenue, was committed to the county jail yesterday morning by Alderman Miller. Arthur Morris, the colored negro who was in her company when she was taken into charge, was committed to the county jail for six months on the charge of vagrancy. Only about $75 of the stolen money was recovered and this sum the Pond woman stoutly alleges came into her possession by perfectly legitimate means. Her victim yesterday morning declared that he met her about 9 o'clock and walked with her towards Adams avenue. As they passed a dark alley-way she suddenly seized his purse and darted up the narrow lane. He followed, but was unable to overtake her. The description he gave the police enabled them to easily ascertain who the woman was. She is the same Miss Pond who, last July, snatched the purse of a North Scranton man on Penn avenue, and on his over-taking her and attempting to recover his money, stabbed him with a small pocket knife and inflicted wounds which sent him to the Lackawanna hospital for several weeks. She wears a well-made wig of dark hair and this, with a large amount of wearing apparel, were found in her room.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS.

Mrs. W. F. Mattes the New President of the Women's Club. The Green Ridge Women's club held a special meeting yesterday to elect officers in place of those who have resigned. The election resulted as follows: President, Mrs. W. F. Mattes; vice-president, Mrs. Alma Connelly; secretary, Miss Katharine Hicks. The officers who serve again this year are Miss Louise Connelly, corresponding secretary; Mrs. R. A. Zimmerman, treasurer. A discussion on revision of the constitution ensued. The old constitution does not meet the requirements of the organization at present, and it is necessary to practically frame a new one. This matter will be continued next Monday at the meeting.

A Unique Guessing Contest.

Flore & Brooks are displaying the photographs of the presidential and county candidates in their show window, together with the announcement that they will give a Brownie Kodak to every child who guesses the names of the successful ones on election day. All guesses must be handed in by 6 p. m. on Monday, Nov. 5.

OPENING OF THE INSTITUTE

TEACHERS OF THE COUNTY ASSEMBLED AT COURT HOUSE.

Three Hundred Teachers of Lackawanna County Are Now Meeting in Their Twenty-Second Annual Institute—The Work of Enrollment Occupied the Morning Session. Miss Louise Connolly, of New York, and Dr. Sherman Davis, of Indiana, Made Addresses.

Fully three hundred teachers, assembled from all over Lackawanna county, were present in the main room of the court house yesterday morning, when County Superintendent J. C. Taylor tapped his bell and called to order the twenty-second annual institute of the association.

The entire morning session was devoted to the distributing of note-books, music books and programmes, and in charge of the following committee: F. L. Thompson, chairman, Newton; August Orendt, secretary, Newton; F. Boyce, Archibald; James Wilson, Scott; S. H. Wage, LaPlume; C. B. Weber, Old Forge; James J. Powell, Moosic.

While this work was in progress a general social session was held, many of the teachers seeing each other for the first time since last year's institute, and friendly relations being renewed and ties of friendship bound still tighter. The scene of the institute presents a far different appearance than it does during court. The judge's bench is hidden from view by a large black-board and the Schenck upright piano is placed where members of the bar can usually be seen addressing the court.

NO ENTERTAINMENTS.

A departure will be made this year at the institute, in the absence of evening entertainments. These have been omitted from the course, as the institute fund was not large enough to warrant a first-class list of speakers without raising the enrollment fee. The afternoon session was opened by the teachers, led by Professor John T. Watkins, of this city, singing "My Country, 'tis of Thee." Under Professor Watkins' direction several other songs were also rendered. Superintendent Taylor then introduced Miss Louise Connolly, an author and lecturer, of New York city, as a lady whom all present would be pleased to hear, as one experienced in institute work and whose address could not help but be interesting and instructive.

Miss Connolly's subject was "The Home and the School," and she said she, "is wherever your family may be. The family is an organism. If I, as a member of my family, am hurt or disgraced, my whole family feels the injury or the stigma. Home means all poetry. At home the fundamental principles of education are instilled in every child's breast. The school introduces a brand new principle into the child's life. He there loses his individuality and for the first time meets with real justice and becomes subordinate to the will of others, the teachers into whose care he is entrusted.

SHOULD COME CLEAN.

The school can demand from the home first that the child comes to school clean. The teachers can also demand from the home that the parents do not gossip about them, as I know is a custom particularly in some of the Southern states. "Then, too, the source of objection is that the parents always come to school in a group the first day that the child begins his primary work, and on the last day, on commencement, neither day of which can be taken at all as a criterion of school work. And in the great intermediate period they rarely come near the school. The school, in turn, should send back the child to the home just as he came, unsullied in person and mind. Recess is the great problem which presents itself to the American teacher. It is our business to prevent the children's morals from being sullied and habits contracted during this short period. Democracy should be encouraged in the public schools, and the children be taught to mingle and associate with each other freely, no matter what their parentage or social rank is."

Miss Connolly closed her remarks with a plea for the parents with children in the High schools, and asked the teacher to try to hold the young people to their natural affection for their parents and not let it wane through the influence of the advanced learning puts them on a higher educational plane than poorly educated fathers and mothers.

DR. DAVIS' TALK.

After a ten minutes' recess the institute work was resumed, and Dr. Sherman Davis, of Indiana State university, was introduced to the institute by Superintendent Taylor. Dr. Sherman opened his address by declaring his belief in the fabled approach of 15,000 fellow-teachers in the state of Indiana. In the course of his talk he made the statement that all instincts have a life relation, and narrated several instances of the actions of animals impelled by instinct to self-protection at the fabled approach of another animal, a hereditary enemy. "The baby babbling," said he, "is merely asserting a life instinct to talk. When the impulse comes for any movement we should always teach those activities. The instinct to talk, to walk is in the babe, but it must be developed. When the race impulse is on, you must teach the language."

TODAY'S PROGRAMME.

The afternoon session was then dismissed and work will be resumed this morning, when the following programme will be carried out: 9 a. m., Main Room—Music, Professor Watkins. Main Room—Section 1—Nature Study, Dr. Davis. Court Room No. 2—Section II—English in the Primary School, Miss Connelly. Main Room—Some Teaching Ideas, Rev. L. J. Lansing; How History Should be Studied, Dr. Schaeffer. 1:30 p. m.—Main Room—Music, Professor Watkins; How to Get Essays, Miss Connolly; address, Dr. Davis; Three Great Orations, Dr. Schaeffer.

MR. PAINE SAYS IT CAN'T BE DONE

Says That No Writ of Quo Warranto Can Be Secured Until Boulevard Co. Violates Its Charter.

H. E. Paine, president of the Abington Turnpike company and one of the organizers of the Northern Boulevard company, which will lease the turnpike and transform it into a boulevard, ridicules City Solicitor Vosburg's attempt to secure a writ of quo warranto to compel the boulevard company to show cause why its newly granted charter should not be revoked.

"I guess he'll be a long time securing that writ," said Mr. Paine to a Tribune man. "I think I know a little about writs of quo warranto, having had experience with them before Mr. Vosburg was ever a lawyer. He can't get a writ of quo warranto until we do something that is forbidden by our charter."

"Of course, if we open up a department store or go into the milk business or do something else that we have no authority to do, why he can get out a writ, but it's useless for him to attempt it until we do something of that sort."

Speaking of the condemnation proceedings which are soon to be begun, Mr. Paine said: "This condemnation idea is positively absurd. They'll find that out before they get very far along with it. They propose to condemn that portion of the road lying within the city limits, but there isn't a toll-gate on the whole stretch of it. What difference would it make if it was condemned? The people can drive over any part of the road within the city limits at present without paying any toll."

"The city would have to keep the road in repair if it were condemned, just the same as it has kept it in repair now, so where would the advantage come in."

is our objective point.

PERMANENCE in Our Pianos. PERMANENCE in Our Business. PERMANENCE in Your Friendship.

There are a good many sales we do not care to make—cannot afford to make. We realize that a few dissatisfied customers might mean the loss of many customers. We therefore sell pianos and not "thump oaxes." The "make believe" piano agent carries on an entirely different branch of industry from ourselves. To the buyer who expects to purchase a $500 piano for $25, or the person expecting to buy a piano on "wind," we can offer no inducements. Our determination is to do BUSINESS ON BUSINESS PRINCIPLES giving full and complete value for every dollar involved. If this plan meets with your approval, we can interest you.

1842 STIEFF PIANOS 1900

Are eminently fitted to successfully play their part in our purpose. For more than half a century these pianos have stood the test and have clearly demonstrated their superiority in TONE, TOUCH and DURABILITY. Examined by scientist or artist, alike the thought is inspired,

THEY ARE FINISHED.

As a medium priced piano, we offer the Baumeister,

A piano with a remarkably full, clear tone, delightful action and great durability. Some of its special features are an Iron Key-bottom Support, full Iron Frame, carefully selected sounding board, cross-banded Wreast-plank, patent repeating action, Ivory Keys and Artistic Cases. Our low priced piano is the Kohler

It is, however, not a cheap instrument. We sell it for $250, and to prove our faith in it, we will agree to take it back any time within three years and allow you every dollar you pay for it on a new STIEFF. The STIEFF to be sold to you at regular cash price.

We will take pleasure in showing our pianos in every detail—nothing to hide—and even though you may not be quite ready to buy, you are welcome to our prices for comparison.

REFUSES TO DRAW THEM

CITY CLERK LAVELLE TAKES A DETERMINED STAND.

Will Not Draw Orders on New City Bills Charge d by the Controller to the Judgments and Incidental Appropriation Until All Old Bills Charged Against his Account Are Paid—Discovers That There Is $10,587.12 in Old Bills Standing Against This Appropriation.

City Clerk Lavelle again refused yesterday, for the second time within the past few weeks, to draw warrants on bills sent up to his office by Controller Howell and charged to the judgments and incidentals appropriation by that official.

The two bills sent up aggregated in amount a little over $300 and were for services rendered by City Solicitor Vosburg in connection with the Abington turnpike muddle and for work done by the Barber Asphalt company in paving a little strip of street on Penn avenue, in front of property belonging to the Handley estate.

Both these bills were contracted within the past two months, and Mr. Lavelle's reason for refusing to draw warrants for them was because he believes that bills contracted a year or more ago, and charged to this account, should be paid first.

He was satisfied that there were a large number of old claims on file against this account, but in order to ascertain the exact amount he caused his assistant, Mr. Morris, to make an examination. The latter did so, and found that there are on file in the controller's office sundry bills and judgments dating from March 2, 1899, amounting to $10,587.12, charged against the judgments and incidentals appropriation. This does not include, of course, the judgments on file in the probate office, which amount to upwards of $60,000.

An examination of the ledger revealed that there is a balance of $3,222.55 still remaining in the appropriation, $3,277.29, a balance remaining from the fund set aside several years ago for the purchase of May Ave park, having recently been merged into the appropriation by the controller.

A few hours after the examination of the books by Mr. Morris, three of the oldest outstanding bills against the account, amounting to over $50, were sent upstairs by the controller to have warrants drawn for them. This City Clerk Lavelle will do, but he announced to a Tribune man that under no consideration whatever would he draw any warrants for any bills except those that come to him in regular order.

He believes that the controller, knowing that there is a balance of over $3,000 in the appropriation, should immediately proceed to wipe that balance out by paying a sufficient number of the oldest bills and judgments to aggregate that amount. He says that Mr. Vosburg and the Barber Asphalt company will have to wait their turn, as have the others.

SEVENTH ANNUAL REUNION.

Catechumens of Trinity Lutheran Church Meet. The seventh annual reunion of the catechumens of Holy Trinity Lutheran church was held last night in Guernsey hall and was attended by a audience which completely filled that beautiful little auditorium and overflowed into the passageway.

The programme was an excellent one and included a brief address by the pastor, Rev. Charles G. Spicker. There were two readings by Miss Bessie Sloat, the accomplished young entertainer, and vocal solos by Miss Bertha Guernsey, Mrs. M. C. Landt and Miss May Guernsey. William Stanton rendered two cornet solos in an acceptable manner.

About Rubber Tires

Of course all rubber tires look alike, but don't you know there is a great difference in the wear and quality of vehicle tires, due to the different methods of putting on, etc.

We have a very expensive plant for putting on Kelly-Springfield Tires on all classes of vehicles. It is the only perfect rubber tire manuf-actured, being made of pure rubber and not composition. These tires are put on to stay—held in the channel by two wires electrically welded. Cannot possibly roll off or tear out.
